School of Social Sciences
The School of Social Sciences is one of the most dynamic schools of the Netaji Subhas Open University. It caters to the need of modern updated curricula of different branches of social sciences on the one hand and also to high-end research activities on the other. The activities of the School are perfect blend of teaching-learning processes and research activities. The most notable feature of the School of Social Sciences is that it works on the basis of a well-articulated planning and close supervision of at the level of execution. These dual core processes of planning and execution promote excellence in the academic programmes of the School. The School of Social Sciences offers the Bachelor Degree Programme (BDP) in History, Political Science, Public Administration, Sociology and Economics. It has also been successfully conducting Post Graduate Courses in History, Political Science and Public Administration. Moreover the School offers Certificate
